Things to consider if you are concerned about a person living with dementia going missing

These guidelines have been written to help people living with dementia, families, carers and care providers to think about the practical steps they can take.

There are 90,000 people living with dementia in Scotland (2017). It is estimated that 40% of people living with dementia will be reported missing at some point and may be missing on multiple occassions.

Alzheimer Scotland and partners in Health and Social Care, Police Scotland and Community Safety Glasgow have developed these guidelines in consultation with people living with dementia, families and carers. We hope that they will enable you to have conversations about staying safe and well, and to think about putting things in place for the future.

MISSING

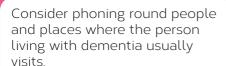

If you think a person living with dementia is missing, check with immediate family and in the surrounding area – home, garden, and neighbours house.

returns at any point. Quest Do you Have the Have the Remain contactable for updates and in case the person living with dementia returns. Keep your phone line free and get help with phoning around and updating friends and family.

Does the person living with dementia have a profile document? If so access it now and let Police Scotland know.

Families and carers should consider what to do in the future.

Are there safeguards that could be put in place?

SAFE+WELL

When the person living with dementia returns.....

Police Scotland

will give advice and support to help with future missing person concerns.

estions to ask yourself...... you know what they were wearing?
ye they got money or bank cards?
ye they got a travel card?
they have a car and do you know the vehicle registration?

Consider things you can do NOW

Create a profile

for the person living with dementia that you can access easily. Include a recent photo

(

Sign up to

Purple Alert purplealert.org.uk to send and receive

missing person alerts

in your area

Involve the person living with dementia in all the decision making processes

Have a conversation about

numbers for family, friends, neighbours, local

Get contact

places, shops etc. and store on your phone

staying safe and consider what the next steps should be

Ask about

routines, places

visited, hobbies and personal history. Find out previous addresses

and jobs

Ask your local Police service if they have a protocol for adults

living in the community who may go missing

Check with your local health and social care organisation for support and services
in your area

Ask about Post
Diagnostic Support

(PDS) if the person living with dementia has recently received a diagnosis

Consider seeking legal advice and obtaining Powers of Attorney

Seek advice from Alzheimer Scotland
24 Hour Helpline
helpline@alzscot.org 0808 808 3000
www.alzscot.org

Speak to your
GP, Community Nurse or Carers Group to be signposted to information and advice

Ask about (SDS)

Self Directed Support

and find out what you could be entitled to Find out about Dementia Friends

dementiafriendsscotland.org
and Dementia Friendly Communities

Consider getting information and ADVICE

Consider putting things in place for the FUTURE

Speak to those in the person living with dementia's network so they can offer help

Record the person living with dementia's wishes and review this with them regularly

telecare options
www.telecareselfcheck.scot
- Use the Telecare Self Check Online Tool to find out more

Consider

Find out about helpful products
tested by people living with dementia
dementiacircle.org

Think about getting a first responder card (see glossary)

Think about
GNSS technology (Global Navigation Satellite Systems)
for safer walking (see glossary)

Consider a befriending service or a support worker to accompany the person living with dementia
when they are out (see glossary)

First Responder Card – Gives access to important details about you, if you aren't able to communicate them and need help. Save your information to a secure online database, then carry the card with you. Various versions of the card are available from online sellers including www.amazon.co.uk from £5.

Befriending Services are available in Scotland. Information on local services can be found on the Befriending Network's website. www.bit.ly/be_friend

Support Worker - you may be able to access personalised support to help with everyday living. www.bit.ly/Support_W

GNSS (Global Navigation Satellite Systems) you may be more familiar with the term GPS (Global Positioning Systems) which has been in use for some time in cars and mobile phones. GNSS devices are usually worn by the person living with dementia to assist them to walk safely and be located if necessary.

www.bit.ly/G_N_S_S

Post Diagnostic Support - a person newly diagnosed with dementia in Scotland is entitled to post-diagnostic services, intended to enable the person and their family to understand and adjust to the diagnosis, connect with services and plan for future care. www.bit.ly/Five_P

Health and Social Care Organisations provide a variety of services and supports, including telecare (see below).

Telecare is a package of technology that can be tailored to meet individual requirements and can let those who care for you know how you are doing or if you need help.

www.bit.ly/T_E_C

Dementia Circle is an Alzheimer Scotland initiative that helps people living with dementia stay independent for longer in their own homes, or in a homely setting by sharing reviews of products and services tried, useful information and resources. Go to the website www.dementiacircle.org

Record - This could be an informal note retained within the family outlining the person living with dementia's wishes, or a more formal Care Plan recording how a person living with dementia wishes to be cared for. www.bit.ly/Care_Plan

Power of Attorney is where you grant someone else the power to run your affairs for you if you become mentally incapacitated in the future, for any reason through illness (such as dementia) or accident. A lawyer would assist with this.

www.bit.ly/PoAttorney

Profile – It may be helpful to write down or keep an online copy of what the person living with dementia looks like, usually wears and where they like to go. A recent photograph would be useful too. It could save time to have this if needed by the Police. Refer to The Herbert Protocol

Protocol (POLICE) for a person living with dementia who may be at risk of being missing. The Herbert Protocol is a profile document that was developed by the Police Service. Contains personal information, including any previous missing incidences. Some Police Services in Scotland use a version of the protocol. www.bit.ly/H_Protocol

 \bigoplus

Self Directed Support (SDS) allows people living with dementia and their families to choose the support they need and how it is delivered and paid for. www.bit.ly/S_D_S

Purple Alert - download this free app to be part of a community that can assist people with dementia if they lose their way. Alzheimer Scotland co-designed the app with people living with dementia and their carers, partners in Health and Social Care and Police Scotland. It was launched in Sept 2017.

www.bit.ly/PurpleAlertAPP

Alzheimer Scotland provides a wide range of specialist services for people with dementia and their carers – personalised support community activities, information and advice, at every stage of the dementia journey. www.alzscot.org

Useful contacts

Alzheimer Scotland www.alzscot.org 24hr Dementia Helpline Freephone 0808 808 3000 email: helpline@alzscot.org

Dementia Friends Scotland dementiafriendsscotland.org

UK Missing Persons Bureau www.missingpersons.police.uk

Dementia Circle www.dementiacircle.org

Carers Scotland www.carersuk.org

Age Scotland www.ageuk.org. uk/scotland

NHS Inform www.nhsinform.scot

Working in partnership for a safer Glasgow

